HONGRONS, OCTOBER 4rm, 1884.

THE riot which occurred vesterday, though serious in its character, might have been at tended-with-far-graver-results-but for the combined forbearance and tenacity of the induce the Chinese stevedores and lightermen in Police. The mob showed great daring and fury, and had the opportunity been afforded. it is to be feared that they would are procoaded to the most desperate acts. The savage and wanton attacks on the Rev. Dr HORDEE, Inspector GERMAIN, and others are sufficient proof that their appetite for violence was thoroughly whatted, while the vengeful threats shouted by the retreating rictors showed that a truly incendiary spirit possessed them. As the crowd included great numbers of poor ignorant men and boys who in the corresponding months of 1982. were merely the tools of others, it is a maitor serious loss of life that must have follow- assisted by the Government and subsidised there is reason to believe, only luiled. The passions of the rioters may have cooled down somewhat! but a fresh spark would quickly any moment. The gallaut Buffs have never been found unroady, however, and General SAEGENT will, weare sure, neverallow red tape to stand in the way when despatch is the first essential to prevent disaster. . The community need therefore, we think, feel under no alarm as to the turn of events. Inconvenience and pecuniary loss are the worst evils the foreign residents and likely to have to endure.

Asto haw long these strikes are going to last, and by whom they are incited, abetted, and supported, we can only hazard conjectures, which it would be better just at present to omit. It is, however, plainly the duty of the Government to leave no stone unturned to get at the bottom of the conspiracy against law and order which has evidently been set on foot in the Colony. It is no time for half measures or reluctant concessions. The rioters have appealed to violence, and no treaty can be entered into with them. Nor should the Government forget that the case has passed out of that phase when strict adherence to conventional measures is obligatory and that special action may be necessary to bring the contumacions cargo-boat people to reason. The Government will not, of course, wish to punish the coolies who have been prac- body of a young Cambodian girl, aged nineteen, tically-compelled to strike by threats of violence, but they must thoroughly re-establish poor, ugly, and infirm, it seemed improbable the Samos and Navigation Islands. A correspondent of the London and China Express tells the following amusing story:-Sometime age a Chinese gentleman told me that he and two others had been given Tla. 40,000 to spend for purposes of trade, they went to Hankoy, where they hoped to lay out their money in a profitable manner. At Hankow they inquired which was the best foreign firm likely to accommodate them to the tune of Tls. 40,000 worth of merchandise. Having been told of a hong that had a certain signboard in Chinese characters at the door, they went there, and one of them speaking a little English, made sure that he would now be able to manage the affair with the compredore; so he entered, followed by his other two friends. Meeting the foreigner who was approaching him, that particular individual yelled for the boys, and wished to know what those coolies wanted in his office. The boys were not long in making their appearance, and expelling the forty thousand tael intruders from the office of a man who was hoping he might do a few hundred tacks worth of business that day. They had demanded as a condition of their re turn that they should revoive a guarantee against being compelled to take French employment, but not being able to obtain that concession they intimated that they would return to work without it. The police did not expect that they would be able to get to The P. and O. THE CHAIRMAN'S CASTING VOTE SIR.—In a former letter I endouvoured to show that the Chairman of the St. Andrew's Society, in voting in the first place as an ordinary member of the meeting and afterwards giving his casting vote, was perfectly in order. It is generally the safest plan, in discussing disputed points, to arrive, if we can, at first principles. Until these are clearly apprehended, we are very apt to make a wrong use of precedents. A judge, for instance, in coming matter before him, has to apply the general principles of law to the consideration of decid 1 ... cases which may have been cited as precedents in the argument. This being done, it sometimes happens that a judge has to override a precedent as being bad law. Now in the consideration of the rights of a Chairman as to voting. I endesvoured to elucidate as clearly as I was able-I am sorry no abler pen has taken the matter up the principle on which a casting vote was given to the Chairman and arrived at the conclusion that the Chairman, although himself an interested party as a member of the meeting, was constituted an umpire. No attempt has so far been made to answer this argument. The advocates of the opposite view rely solely on pre-vote in accordance with the number of their shares and do not man one vote principle. I fail to see what difference this makes in the argument. Let us say the owners of shares to the number of one another hundred vote against "it. In these the Chairman's vota is included. The votes being equal the Chairman has to give the casting vote. Every one admits that this is right and proper. But in what respect does the position differ from what it would be if a hundred men Inspector Perry said-About eleven o'clock | voted one way and a hundred another? The joint proclamation of the Vicercy and the Governor has been sent up to Swatow. It is sufficient to meet the crisis, provided that the local officials give it effect. But their apathy is romarkable and surely demands ar explanation Even a Viceroy's proclamation will not execute tself; the local officials must do that. A wide impression prevails that in their hearts the high officials do not mean what they say. The local officials ought promptly to follow up the Viceroy's proclamation, but they are slow to do it. The Taotai ought to take the lead in active offerts to propose mischief. We cannot les that he has issued a single proclamation. If the magistrates had really wished to prevent the mischief that has occurred, they could have done so. When they are in dead earnest they throw responsibility on the gentry, the heads of clans, village elders, and party local officials, calling upon them to maintain order, and notifying them that they will be held responsible for outrages bommitted in their neighbourhoods or by their people Had this been done, it is believed that there would

A notable case of the kind occurred some years ago when the Hu City was opened: The first notifications to the people of the city to maintain order were vague and general -strong fulming. tions, but addressed to nobody in particular. Consequently, the first British Consul that went there was stoned. When it was found that the occupation of the city would be insisted upon, the Taotal issued another proclamation calling upon the gentry, heads of clans and families, and district offcers, each to keep in subjection his own people, at his own peril if he failed. The result of this was that several hundred respectable and influential persons of the city were compelled to array themselves on the side of order. The next Consul went inquietly and there was no trouble. Indeed, without the aid of these local func-tionaries—heads of clans, families, and guilds, &c. -it would be difficult for the District Magistrate to carry on his administration. He himself is a stranger in the district, knows but little about the inner life of the towns and villages under him, and has a comparatively small number of serviceable attendants. TWATUTIA, 27th Saptember. Report has travelled here that the Vipère yesterday overhauled very strictly the steamer Negroes have mutinied against the English Pokies, and this morning, sighting a steamer steering from the north towards Tamshi, she steamed towards her. The vessel is supposed there has been a great massacre. Rumours were to have been the British steamer Waverley. The Vipers anddenly emerged out of the depths of the shades which hang over the waters in the early morn, and as the Waverley changed her course, she gave chase, which, lasted for some time. A shot was fired across the steamer's bow or under her stern, and toon afterwards she was boarded by a prize crew from the Vipere, and the last that was seen of her she was steaming away in the direction of Foochow.
